Call for Student Talks and Posters

SCSMM Spring Symposium
Friday April 12, 2019
University of California, Irvine

The Southern California Society for Microscopy and Microanalysis (SCSMM) invites students from across the region to present your research at our upcoming Spring Symposium - to be held in the Calit2 Building Auditorium at the University California, Irvine on Friday April 12, 2019. Five submissions from students will be selected for a 15-minute platform talk. All others will be invited to present a poster.

Student platform talks and posters will be judged by the organizing committee and winners will receive cash awards of up to $500. Please submit abstracts to Adam Stieg via email (astieg@ucla.edu) using the subject line "SCSMM Student Presentation". The content should include:

- Title of talk or poster
- Name, affiliation, and e-mail address
- Preference for platform talk or poster
- Abstract (No more than 1 page including images and references – see attached template).

Participation in the Symposium as a speaker or poster presenter is open to SCSMM Members. Non-members are welcome to apply. If selected, SCSMM membership can be activated by registering online: <http://www.imri.uci.edu/content/2019-spring-meeting-registration>

In order for consideration as platform talks, please submit your abstract by March 15th, 2019.

Invited applicants will be notified via email by March 22nd, 2019.
